UK Outlook for Saturday 18 Sep 2021 to Saturday 2 Oct 2021:
Confidence is relatively low during this period, in part due to tropical storm activity across the Atlantic, which can significantly affect weather at the mid-latitudes. However, the unsettled theme will probably continue throughout this period and perhaps extend into late September, with rainfall expected to be slightly above average. Beyond this, there is a chance of more settled conditions, especially across southern areas, with a chance of rainfall easing and trending towards average or drier than average. Temperatures are likely to remain above average throughout.
